But your mama and papas, they tell their kids differently.

Miche, a graphics artist from Chicago, was burned by fire performance artists into trying their new entertainment form. It wasn’t that bad, he said, just a little too much for his inability to breathe for burning fire. After sucking in a flammable fluid, he’s allegedly been smoking it, sometimes with a small flame in front of your lips. Last year, he made his first foray. That’s when he made the near-death experience of hasp. The flame shot back into his face leaving him with a near-death burn. His back’s this year, he’s a little more careful. It’s a good thing, he said, with a small flame in front of your lips.
